D. Language Requirements

- The student must demonstrate the ability to read pertinent scholarly literature in two languages determined in consultation with the theory faculty. This requirement must be fulfilled before the student takes the comprehensive examination, preferably during the first year of residency. This requirement can be met in one of the following ways:
  1. Completion with a passing grade on the final examination of two semesters of a graduate-level reading course approved by the theory faculty.
  2. Two years of course work in each language while enrolled as a graduate student.
  3. Written examination administered by the theory faculty. The exam will consist of a short article in the designated language, about which the student will answer a series of questions and of which she or he will translate a short excerpt.

E. Musicianship Examination

- The student must demonstrate competence in six areas of practical musicianship:
  - Sight singing
  - Dictation of a chorale
  - Keyboard sight reading
  - Realization of thoroughbass OR harmonization of a melody from chord symbols
  - Keyboard sight reading of a string quartet score OR improvising on an instrument

Musicianship examinations are offered once a semester. The student may take the examination as many times as necessary to pass.

Alternatively, the student may fulfill the keyboard requirement by (1) passing MUS:4210 Keyboard Harmony with a grade of B or better, or (2) passing the final examination for MUS:4210 by arrangement with the organ faculty.

F. Qualifying Examination

- At the end of the second semester of study or beginning of the third, the student must pass an examination evaluating foundational theoretical knowledge and skills, in part with regard to a reading and score study list determined in consultation with the theory faculty.
