ABOUT THE ARTISTS

The Iowa Steel Band, under the direction of Dr. Dan Moore, is the most active touring ensemble from The UI School of Music traveling nearly 2000 miles each year performing throughout Iowa and the Midwest under the auspices of the UI Arts Share program. The Iowa Steel Band was formed in 1996 and typically features 16-20 performing members. They have performed in 50 of Iowa's 99 counties and are still counting.

In 2013, the band won the Percussive Arts Society international World Percussion Ensemble Competition. The competition was sponsored by PAS, the largest and most prestigious percussion organization worldwide.

The band has released four critically acclaimed recordings: everywhere Calypso, Noise Brigade, Queen of the Bands, and their latest album, Jungle Music featuring Andy Narell, which can be heard on Spotify, YouTube, and most streaming platforms. The band is currently finishing a new recording with steel pan super star, Victor Provost due out in 2026.

In addition to the Iowa Steel Band, the School of Music also offers the All-University Steel Band and the community steel band known as Pan IC.

All University Steel Band is open to any University of Iowa Student who can read music. To enroll in MUS:3162:0001, contact Evan Tanner at Evan-tanner@Uiowa.edu

For more information about Pan IC, contact Dr. Ginny Armstrong at paniowacity@gmail.com

If you would like to be on our email news list, contact Dr. Dan Moore at Daniel-moore@uiowa.edu
